

Art Deco Spaulding & Co. Diamond Black Onyx and Platinum Butterfly Choker, Circa £12,000.00

An Art Deco butterfly choker, by Spaulding & Co, with a central butterfly, with open wings, flanked by two butterflies, with closed wings, on sliding fittings to adjust their position, set with eight-cut diamonds, with a round brilliant-cut diamond in the thorax of the centre butterfly and Edwardian-cut diamonds in the thoraxes of the flanking diamonds, the wing edges are channel set with French cut calibr  black onyx, mounted in platinum, with an eight-cut diamond set platinum box clasp, on a velvet choker, signed Spaulding & Co., made in Chicago, USA, circa 1925.

Spaulding & Co. was founded by Henry Abiram Spaulding, born 1837, in Chicago, USA, in 1888. In 1929 Spaulding & Co. Inc., Black Starr & Frost and Gorham Company were consolidated into a company called called Gorham, Inc.

Origin	American
Period	1920s
Style	Art Deco
Condition	Very good
Materials	Platinum
Main Gemstone	Diamond
Dimensions	Length 330mm, width 15.6mm. 9.99 grams
Secondary Gemstone	Onyx

Antique ref: S5424N