

Pair of Japanese Imari dishes, 18th century
POA

Pair of Japanese Imari dishes, 18th century, with gently lobed rims, each decorated in the centre with branches of flowering peony and willow issuing from rockwork in a fenced garden, the rim with with six alternating panels containing either an iron red floral diaper and scrolling flowerheads against a blue ground, or delicate water lilies and foliate lotus against a vibrant red ground, the reverse with two sprays of plum and typical spur marks to the base.

Condition: Some wear to gilding and enamels

Material and Technique	Porcelain with enamel decoration and gilt highlights
Origin	Japanese
Period	18th Century
Condition	Very good
Diameter	22cm. (8 3/4in.)

Antique ref: Y927B