This Vintage Titus chronograph from around the 1950's would have been a big bold statement piece of the time, 37mm 18ct yellow gold case with the value of gold right now many would have broken this watch down.

Working well and overall despite its age this watch is in great condition. The black dial bien much more rare on a watch of the era its has a beautifully painted dial with bronze coloured hands and hour markers over the gilt black dial.

All functions working as they should this manual wind watch operates at around +20 seconds per day.

Fitted to a generic black leather strap and buckle.
