Watch: Rolex Oyster Perpetual Date 15223

As sharp a case as is possible on a watch of this age, absolutely immaculate and near perfect working order running as good as most brand new watches this Rolex Oyster Perpetual Date 15223 is surely one of the finest example around!

Not a blemish on it, the case is exceptional and would appear not to have been used since that Rolex service in 2015 retaining all its edges, the dial, glass, case are just exceptional condition.

Admittedly this Oyster Perpetual Date doesn't have its original bracelet and is fitted a black generic leather strap and Rolex signed buckle but it does have its inner and outer box, original swing tag, original papers (dated to 1995) and documented Rolex service card from 2015.

34mm stainless steel case with a yellow gold bezel and crown, the dial being classic Rolex champagne with the date at 3. Incredibly understated but truly beautiful.

Pressure tested to 30 meters, time tested to show running at just plus 2 or 3 seconds per day with an amplitude over 300.

Our View - As cliché as it is but try finding a better example!
