£1,850.00

A striking sculptural ring by Dorothy Hogg MBE (1945–2023), one of Britain’s most influential contemporary jewellers. Crafted in platinum (Pt 950) and hallmarked Edinburgh, 2019, this piece exemplifies Hogg’s distinctive exploration of geometry, balance, and spatial tension.

The ring’s minimalist triangular form reflects Hogg’s celebrated approach — transforming pure shape into wearable architecture. Its clean planes and structural integrity invite both contemplation and admiration, embodying her lifelong dialogue between design and emotion.

Originally exhibited and sold by The Scottish Gallery, Edinburgh, this work represents a key late example of Hogg’s artistry, created while she served as Emeritus Head of Jewellery & Silversmithing at Edinburgh College of Art.

A museum-quality collector’s piece, accompanied by a Certificate of Authenticity from Marks Jewellery, Mayfair.
