Breitling Chronomat Blackbird – Ref. A13350 – Automatic Chronograph – Pilot Bracelet. Recently Serviced.

The Breitling A13350 Chronomat Blackbird is a cult classic within the Breitling lineup, celebrated for its understated, stealthy design and robust chronograph functionality. Produced between 1995 and 2004, the Blackbird was conceived as a more discreet alternative to the standard Chronomat—toning down polish in favour of brushed finishes and a purposeful, tool-watch aesthetic.

This example has recently undergone light polishing and testing in our workshop and is presented in excellent working order, ready for its next owner.

Design & Character

The Blackbird's matte black dial and brushed steel case give it a distinctly military, low-reflection appearance, perfectly aligned with its aviation roots. The iconic five-link Pilot bracelet adds both comfort and visual impact, making this reference instantly recognisable to Breitling enthusiasts.

Our View

After a recent light polish and full testing in our workshop, this Blackbird is ready to be enjoyed. It remains one of the most desirable stealth chronographs Breitling has produced—robust, wearable, and effortlessly cool. The classic Pilot bracelet only adds to its appeal, making this a fantastic everyday chronograph with real presence.
