Our View

The Tudor Prince Date Chrono Time 9140/0 is a seriously interesting piece of Tudor history. Built during the Quartz Crisis, Tudor/Rolex responded not by outsourcing but by developing their own high?accuracy quartz movement and pairing it with a sharp, angular case and integrated bracelet — decades before integrated steel sports watches became mainstream.

The fact that this example is one owner from new, comes with its original boxes and extensive paperwork (including Rolex service documents), and is in such honest condition makes it a standout collector opportunity.
