

9K Gold Diamond "McDonalds" Signet Ring – London, 1993
£1,650.00

Some icons need no introduction. Others... come with fries.

This striking vintage signet ring, crafted in solid 9K yellow gold and hallmarked in London for 1993, takes one of the most recognisable symbols in modern culture and elevates it into something altogether more refined.

The boldly engraved arches—instantly familiar—are reinterpreted here with the confidence of a maison signature, while a 0.10ct brilliant cut diamond is set beneath, offering a discreet flash of brilliance. Think less fast food, more fastidious design.

Weighing an impressive 10 grams and sized at UK S½, the ring has the presence and polish of a classic gentleman's signet—yet with a knowing wink. It sits somewhere between heritage goldsmithing and pop-art irreverence, blurring the lines between high jewellery and high street iconography.

It's unapologetically bold. Unexpectedly luxurious. And entirely unforgettable.

For those who understand that true style isn't about following the rules — it's about rewriting them.

Because sometimes, the most powerful statement... is the one that doesn't take itself too seriously.
