

Omega Geneve 131.015
£750.00

If you appreciate the quiet charm of 1960s dress watches, this Omega reference 131.015 is an absolute gem. Based on the movement's production archives, it dates right to 1962, giving you a true piece of mid-century watchmaking history.
The undisputed star of the show here is the original silver linen dial. Up close, it features a beautiful, cross-hatched woven texture that catches the light in a way standard flat dials just can't match. Itadds an incredible layer of depth and character while keeping that ultra-clean, minimalist look.

The stainless steel case has a classic 34mm footprint—the perfect, understated vintage size thatslips right under a cuff. It also features its correct, original Omega-signed crown. We've paired thispiece with a lovely, high-quality blue leather strap, which creates a striking contrast that makes thetextured linen dial absolutely pop.
Inside, it is powered by the legendary manual-wind Omega Calibre 600. Highly regarded by watchmakers for its robust build, slim profile, and ease of service, it winds smoothly and ticks away reliably. It’s a beautifully simple, elegant vintage watch that brings a ton of classic style to the wrist without screaming for attention.

Key Specifications:
Model: Vintage Manual Wind
Reference: 131.015
Circa: 1962
Case Size: 34mm (excluding crown)
Material: Stainless Steel
Crown: Original Omega-Signed Crown
Dial: Original Silver Textured Linen Dial
Crystal: Acrylic
Movement: Mechanical Manual Wind (Omega Calibre 600)
Strap: Premium Blue Leather Strap
Condition: Excellent vintage condition with light, honest wear consistent with age
Inclusions: Watch Only (Box & Papers Not Included)

Antique ref: 061