Edwardian Silver Trombone Link Albert - Saddingtons Jewellery Stand 375
£875.00

A classic Edwardian Silver Trombone Link Albert interspersed with decorative connector links, and finished with its original T-bar and dog clip. Dating to the early twentieth century, this splendid chain embodies the understated elegance of the Edwardian era. The elongated trombone links provide a refined, architectural appearance while remaining both practical and durable. Originally designed to secure a gentleman’s pocket watch, the chain now lends itself equally well to contemporary wear as a stylish necklace or layered with antique pendants and fobs. The chain measures 18 inches and is 42.6g, the drop measures 2cm. The t bar and the dog clips features the makers mark ‘F.W.C’, the chain has the silver assay marks stamped on each link. Retaining its original fittings, including the T-bar and swivel dog clip, this is a versatile and highly collectable piece of antique silver jewellery.
