Our View

The Callistino is one of Breitling's most underrated models. Built with the same attention to detail and robustness as the larger professional models, it offers a more compact and elegant package while retaining unmistakable Breitling styling.

The striking blue dial works beautifully against the steel case and rider-tab bezel, while the COSC-certified Breitling Calibre 71 ensures exceptional accuracy. Complete examples such as this are becoming increasingly difficult to source, making it an excellent choice for collectors and everyday wearers alike.
