Our View

Few watches can match the history of the Speedmaster Professional. The Moonwatch's association with NASA's lunar missions has secured its place as one of the most important watches ever produced, and the 3570.50.00 is widely regarded as one of the last truly classic references before later updates to the range.

Collectors particularly appreciate the combination of the manual-wind Calibre 1861, Hesalite crystal and traditional Moonwatch aesthetics. This example remains unpolished and is accompanied by an
