Rolex Cellini 3802 18ct White Gold Manual Wind

Rolex Cellini 3802 – An elegant and understated dress watch from Rolex's distinguished Cellini collection, crafted in 18ct white gold and showcasing the refined design language that sets the range apart from the brand's sports models. Featuring a distinctive oval-shaped case, slim profile and silver dial with applied hour markers, this Cellini embodies timeless sophistication and offers a versatile aesthetic equally suited to both men and women.

Presented with a new leather strap and in good overall vintage condition, this manual-wind Cellini is powered by the Rolex Calibre 1600 movement. A stylish and increasingly collectible alternative to more conventional Rolex models, offering exclusivity and elegance in equal measure.

Our View

The Cellini collection has always represented Rolex at its most elegant, focusing on refinement and traditional watchmaking rather than professional sports functionality. The reference 3802 perfectly illustrates this philosophy with its graceful oval-shaped white gold case, slim proportions and beautifully simple silver dial.

The subtle patina visible on the dial enhances the watch's vintage appeal, while the new leather strap ensures it remains ready for regular wear. Less frequently encountered than many vintage Rolex references, the Cellini offers collectors an opportunity to own a genuinely distinctive precious metal Rolex that stands apart from the mainstream.
