

0.35ct Pink
£950.00

A wonderfully distinctive ring combining the captivating beauty of a vibrant pink Ceylon sapphire with an unusual and beautifully detailed two-tone gold design.

Taking centre stage is an approximately 0.35ct triangular-cut pink sapphire, originating from Sri Lanka (formerly Ceylon), displaying delightful raspberry-pink hues. The gemstone is securely nestled within a polished white gold bezel, creating a striking contrast against the warmth of the yellow gold band.

Crafted in 14k yellow and white gold, the ring features an intricate, three-row geometric design, with alternating polished gold sections creating a wonderfully textured, almost woven appearance.

With its bold architectural styling and playful use of contrasting metals, this charming piece has a distinctly retro character, reminiscent of the innovative jewellery designs of the late 20th century.

Unusual, elegant and full of personality, this is a ring for someone who appreciates jewellery that's a little different from the ordinary.
