Omega Genève 132.019 Manual Wind 18ct Yellow Gold 1965

Omega Genève 132.019 – A wonderfully preserved vintage Omega dating to 1965, combining understated elegance with the charm of a classic manual-wind movement. Featuring a 34mm yellow gold case, champagne dial and date display, this Genève captures the timeless dress-watch styling that made Omega one of the most respected names in Swiss watchmaking throughout the 1960s.

Presented in excellent overall condition and fitted with a new unworn brown leather strap with white stitching, this example offers exceptional value for anyone seeking a genuine vintage gold Omega. The case and dial remain particularly well preserved, showing none of the discolouration or blemishes often found on watches of this age.

Our View

The Genève range has become increasingly popular amongst collectors seeking authentic vintage Omega quality without the higher entry price associated with Seamaster and Constellation references. This 1965 example perfectly demonstrates why, offering classic proportions, elegant styling and impressive mechanical performance in a highly wearable package.
