IWC Da Vinci Quartz 37mm 1991 – Serviced Full Set

IWC Da Vinci – A superb example of one of IWC's most distinctive and elegant designs from the early 1990s, presented as a complete full set and recently benefiting from a full service and polish. With its refined white dial, beautifully engineered case design and exceptional build quality, the Da Vinci remains one of the most underappreciated collections in IWC's rich history.

Dating to 1991 and accompanied by its original boxes, warranty card and manuals, this example is presented in excellent working order and exceptionally well-preserved condition. Fitted with its original IWC black leather strap and buckle, it offers a rare opportunity to acquire a collector-grade Da Vinci that has clearly been cherished throughout its life.

Our View

The Da Vinci collection represents a fascinating chapter in IWC's history, combining innovative engineering with elegant and distinctive design. While many collectors focus on the brand's pilot and sports watches, the Da Vinci has quietly gained appreciation amongst enthusiasts who recognise its quality, individuality and historical importance.

This particular example stands out thanks to its exceptional condition and completeness. The crisp white dial paired with the original black strap creates a timeless, understated aesthetic, while the recent service and polish ensure it is ready to be enjoyed immediately.
