Our View
The Daytona 116500LN needs little introduction. It has become one of the most important and desirable Rolex references of the modern era, combining the robustness of Oystersteel with the technical excellence of the in-house Calibre 4130 and the visual impact of the black Cerachrom bezel.

The black dial variant offers a distinctly sporting character while retaining the versatility that has made the Daytona such a universally admired watch. What makes this example particularly attractive is its Rolex Certified Pre-Owned history, having been retailed through the Rolex CPO programme in 2026 for £29,000.

Offered here at a significant saving and accompanied by a comprehensive set of accessories, this represents an excellent opportunity to acquire one of the world's most sought-after luxury sports watches in outstanding condition.
