Breitling Navitimer A13330 Automatic Chronograph 2002 – Full Set

Breitling Navitimer A13330 – One of the most iconic pilot's watches ever produced, combining unmistakable aviation heritage with outstanding chronograph functionality. This 2002 example is particularly attractive thanks to its desirable black dial paired with contrasting white sub-dials, a configuration rarely seen compared to more common variants and one that perfectly suits the Navitimer's instrument-inspired design.

Presented as a complete full set and retaining its original boxes, warranty papers, manuals and full complement of bracelet links, this example remains highly original throughout. Unpolished but sympathetically cleaned, it offers the sort of honest condition increasingly sought after by collectors who value originality above unnecessary restoration.
