Our View

The TAG Heuer 2000 collection remains one of the brand's most underrated vintage ranges. Built to be practical, reliable and easy to wear, these watches have developed a strong following amongst collectors who appreciate honest sports watches that can still be enjoyed daily.

What makes this example particularly appealing is the documented TAG Heuer service completed in 2026. Having recent manufacturer service history removes much of the uncertainty that can accompany vintage quartz watches and provides valuable peace of mind for the next owner.

A straightforward, dependable and increasingly collectible TAG Heuer that offers excellent value and genuine everyday usability.
