

Rock Crystal, Citrine & Moonstone Pendant Necklace | Amy Sandheim | Arts & Crafts c.1930s POA

This striking pendant by Amy Sandheim captures the essence of 1930s British Arts & Crafts jewellery.

At its centre is a bold, faceted drop of rock crystal, suspended beneath a citrine cabochon and flanked by two luminous moonstones and a vivid carnelian bead in a finely worked silver mount.

The original handmade and intricate silver chain is bespoke to the pendant, and it's rare to find Sandheim pieces so complete, and in such beautifully preserved condition.

Sandheim rarely used precious stones, favouring the natural glow of crystal, citrine, and moonstone to speak for themselves.

Chain measures approx. 70cm. Pendant approx. 3cm wide by 2.2cm deep.
