

Rock Crystal Heart Pendant Necklace | Sapphire-Set Gold Chain | English | Late 1930s POA

A striking yet tender piece of late 1930s design, this necklace brings together sentiment, softness, and subtle glamour in perfect balance.

At its centre is a large, faceted 3cm rock crystal heart - cool, clear, and gently luminous.

The scale gives it presence, but the clarity and shape keep it grounded in emotion rather than opulence.

It's suspended from a beautifully detailed 9ct gold chain, made up of pierced decorative links, each one light and open, with just enough flourish to catch the eye.

Four small sapphires are spaced evenly along the chain, adding soft flashes of blue that echo the romantic tone of the pendant without overwhelming it.

At 45cm in length, it rests just below the collarbone, light, graceful, and quietly expressive.

Likely made in England in the late 1930s, it reflects the mood of the time: thoughtful, emotive, and beautifully made.

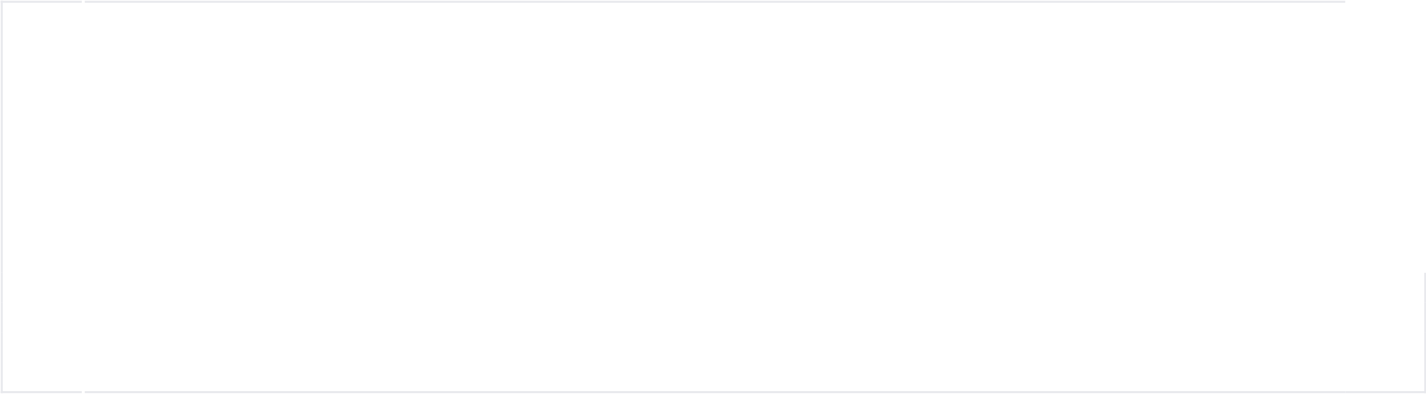

A piece to wear often, and to feel something through. Elegant, unusual, and full of feeling.
