

Art Nouveau Enamel Silver Picture Pendant | Liberty & Co | c.1910 POA

A beautiful example of Liberty Art Nouveau design, this silver and enamel pendant was made in England around 1910 and designed to hold a miniature picture or keepsake.

Crafted in silver and richly enamelled in tones of peacock blue, emerald green, and soft amber, it showcases the distinctive Liberty palette that still resonates today through the brand's iconic prints and design.

The frame is decorated with stylised leaf motifs and subtle organic curves, typical of the early 20th century Art Nouveau.

A rare surviving example from Liberty's golden era, and beautifully wearable today.
