

A Silver Blue Pearlised Necklace by Hermann Siersbol
£425.00

measuring 39cm, this necklace was made by Danish designer Hermann Siersbol who opened his workshop in April 1945. He had a mission to make affordable quality jewellery in modern Scandinavian designs. He started with an investment of 2000 crowns which he had laid aside of his salary as a silversmith apprentice. His company has slowly become one of the largest silver and gold jewellery producers of Scandinavia. In 1964 Hermann died in a tragic accident and the company was taken over by his 4 children. The early pieces are very sought after and valuable. c.1950
